WENTWORTH CLEANED UP

Outplayed Wesleyan All the Way and Won 12 to 0.

By playing football of superior form all the time, the Wentworth team Thursday clearly demonstrated its superiority to Missouri Wesleyan at the Gordon and Koppel field in Kansas City and won 12 to 0. In every department of the game the cadets had the preachers bested. After Jones in the first quarter picked up a fumble by Coe and raced for a touchdown there was never any doubt about the outcome.

A special train which left Lexington at nine in the morning carried the battalion of cadets and about fifty local enthusiasts to Kansas City. Headed by the band they paraded the streets and then went to the Densmore hotel for the Thanksgiving dinner.

The game was called at three. Overhead the atmosphere was excellent for football, but the sun had thawed out the field and the gridiron resembled a hog wallow. After the play had been going only a few minutes every player was covered with mud from head to toe. The ball soon got soaked so that punting was out of the question. Still there were surprisingly few fumbles.

The first quarter started off with things looking even; but after about seven minutes of play Coe, the quarter and captain of Wesleyan, dropped back for a punt. The pass was low and Coe dropped the ball. Jones, the big Wentworth tackle, was right on the spot with the Sammy White act. He gathered in the shiny oval and beat it for the goal posts. He showed some speed too, for the swift Coe came no where near catching him.

The next two quarters showed no score. Sunderland got away for several long runs and Coe ripped off two pretty sprints for 40 yards. In the last quarter Wortman, the cadet captain and right half, broke through the line and shaking off four would-be tacklers scored the second touchdown. Roberts kicked both goals.

Nearly all of the time the ball was in Wesleyan's territory and on several occasions the cadets came near scoring.

Sunderland was the bright and particular star of the game. Time after time he ripped off long gains in spite of the slippery footing. Once he got past all of the preachers only to fall in the mud. Roberts was another luminary. Although he had a bad shoulder he ran well with the ball and kicked well under the circumstances. Once he saved a touchdown when the speedy Coe had eluded every other man. Russell ran the team splendidly. His father, who early in the season was opposed to his playing, came up from Sherman, Texas, to see the game. He played his best game of the year.

Wortman, the captain, after two seasons of hard luck ended his playing career at Wentworth in a blaze of glory. He tackled faultlessly, showed good sense in commanding the team, and made one of the prettiest runs of the day when he made his touchdown. Jones played a great and consistent game as he has done all season. He was always on hand and followed the ball closer than did any other man on the field. Askew was accurate in all of his passes and played an exceedingly strong game on defense.

Coe and Bigler did all of the real work for Wesleyan in carrying the balls and Peairs was the star performer on defense.

About 1,500 people saw the game and nearly all of them rooted for Wentworth. The special returned to Lexington Thursday night.

Albert Fegert Dead.

Notwithstanding the fact that many knew of the critical illness of Albert Fegert, yet all were deeply grieved when the news came that he was dead. He died Sunday evening at 5:30 o'clock at his home on Franklin avenue after a lingering illness of several months.

Mr. Fegert was well-known in Lexington where he had spent practically all his life. Everyone respected him for his industry and integrity. His character was above reproach. He lived simply and whatever responsibilities were thrust upon him were met with an unwavering courage. He loved his home, and there when overtaken with affliction he was tenderly nursed and comforted until his life's battle was over.

Mr. Fegert was born in Lexington July 4, 1883, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fegert. He was educated in the public schools. For a few years he lived in Macon, Mo., where he was connected with the Standard Oil Company, and there he was married July 27, 1902, to Miss Ida Payne, who with one son, Clark, survives him. On his return to Lexington he was employed by the Winkler Furniture Company, where he continued until about a year ago when he was appointed assistant postmaster.

Besides his wife and son he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fegert, and two brothers, Ernest and Oswald.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Christian church. Rev. S. Boyd White conducted the services at the church and the W. O. W. at the grave.

Basket Ball.

There will be a basket ball game Monday evening at three o'clock at Lexington College between the Missouri Valley College team and the Lexington College team. Admission 25 cents.

William Cobb returned Tuesday from a visit in Marshall.

"The Man in the Case."

In spite of the snow and wind a fair sized and enthusiastic audience turned out Monday evening to see the Vailima Literary society of Central college produce "The Man in the Case," a farce comedy, in Murrell auditorium. The Vailimas have given several plays in years past with considerable success and this year they fully lived up to their reputation.

The play itself was very funny and the young ladies introduced many local lines effectively to the amusement of the audience. The six young ladies who took part did exceedingly well. There was not a hitch in the whole performance except when the curtains refused to be pulled together.

Miss Ruby Smith, Miss Mildred Musser and Miss Josephine Smith are well known to Lexington audiences, since they have appeared in previous plays at the college. Their work was splendid and they drew forth a great many laughs.

Miss Wanda Malarkey, Miss Elizabeth Spencer and Miss Katherine King, who handled the other three roles, did their share toward making the entertainment a success. There was no star part to this play and all the performers had about equal opportunities.

After the play there was an enjoyable informal reception in the halls and parlors of the college.

Prof. O. F. Schweer went to Marshall Wednesday on business.

CLOTHES FOR THE HOLIDAYS

THE Holidays are upon us and it is time to "dress-up" for the occasion. You will need a Suit or an Overcoat—naturally you wonder what to get and where to get it. We are vitally interested in both parts of that question; we say get it HERE and we will tell you WHY. Our showing includes the very best efforts of America's leading tailors; every Suit and Overcoat is made of the best ALL WOOL materials, carefully hand-tailored and perfect fitting. Every garment is priced with full regard to giving YOU a full dollar's worth of quality for every dollar of cost. Every garment is marked in plain figures and those prices are the selling price to everyone—we are strictly ONE PRICE to everybody.

SUITS AND OVERCOATS

Every Suit in our stock is carefully tailored by the leading makers of this country. The House of Kuppenheimer, "L" System, Wener and Samuels have given their best efforts to the garments that we are showing this season. Every suit is full of style—models for every man. Every garment is tailored by hand and the great mills of the world have made the PURE WOOL fabrics from which they are cut. Every color is here, including the new shades of Browns, Grays and Blues, Plain and Fancy Serges, Worstedes, Cassimers and Velours.

Every style that carries the approval of Dame Fashion is shown in our line of Overcoats; great coats with broad collars and light Raincoats with the convertible collar are included. Overcoats made of the heavy rough materials, some are self lined with bellows pockets, others lined with heavy serge and with regular pockets; with both plain and convertible collars. Every color and fabric; all sizes and every garment perfect fitting. Every coat marked at a price that will appeal to you.
